1. Fare - well, fare - well my dar - ling once more, come 2. As I take my last look at the dear old home, and smile on me brave-ly, and say, "When the girls o - ver-seas send their gaze on its plen - ty and peace, I know I shall think of you boys to the war, I would-'nt have you stay a - way; Come safe from all harm, and pray-ing that the war may cease; I stand with me now 'neath the old — ap-ple tree, — where you and I, sweet - heart, know it is hard for the dear ones left behind, as they pa-tient-ly wait, with their vowed to be true, when the war - clouds are flown and the thoughts o'er the sea, but when fight - ing is o - ver and ad lib. rall.

Em - pire is free, I'll be here once a - gain, love, with you. — vic - to - ry is won, You'll be here once a - gain, love, with me. —

Then, good - bye my dar - ling, for you make it might-y hard, and you know you'll have me quitting if you cry, — For the bugles are a' call-ing a - cross the bar-rack yard, So kiss me once my dar-ling, and good - bye. —
